

Encouraging Research Integrity

Damian Cox
Bond University

Australian Code

Responsible research is encouraged and guided by the research culture of the organisation. A strong research culture will demonstrate:

- honesty and integrity
- respect for human research participants, animals and the environment
- good stewardship of public resources used to conduct research
- appropriate acknowledgment of the role of others in research
- responsible communication of research results

Badgering and Instructing

Hi All, The food stored in this fridge/freezer belongs to staff, please be considerate and do not help yourself and consume the food of other people.

It is very disheartening when you go to get lunch as it has disappeared.

Thank you for your co-operation and assistance.

PLEASE REFRAIN FROM TAKING MILK HOME

Integrity

- Personal versus Professional
- Context relativity: the integrity of a politician
- Negotiating your way through clashing obligations
- The division of intellectual labour
- Intellectual integrity as a virtue

Encouraging Virtue

- Virtues and the internal rewards of a practice
- Disciplinary exemplars
- Obstacles I: mismatch between external rewards and internal rewards
- Obstacles II: external management
- Obstacles III: one size fits all judgment